August 3, 2010

Greetings:

I know that it may be difficult to imagine, but the end of the summer is swiftly approaching. The 2010-2011 school year will be an exciting year for our school and community. Educating our youth is an enormous task that requires all stakeholders to work together and invest in our children.

James Coble Middle School experienced countless successes last year and the best is yet to come. One of the goals for this school year is to increase parental involvement. Our students will only achieve at their full potential when we, the JCMS faculty and staff and parents, work collaboratively to provide them with the best education possible. I strongly encourage parents to get involved in their child's education. Please take advantage of the many opportunities that you will have to get involved in the success of your child such as joining the PTA or booster clubs, making an appointment to visit the classrooms, or becoming a volunteer.

I look forward to working with the faculty, staff, students, parents, and community members to facilitate academic success and foster personal growth for all students attending Coble. I am committed to continue the tradition of excellence that is deeply embedded into the school's culture. I am honored to be a Coble Coyote!

Sincerely,
